Fleetwings Assumes Full Charge of Merchandising of Kaiser Dishwasher

PRICE RANGE, $127-$200

Production is Now Reaching Capacity, Says Statement

Henry J. Kaiser announced today that production of his new jet-propelled aluminum dishwasher has reached 12,000 units per month, and that distribution is being extended to include departments stores and appliance dealers throughout the United States in addition to established Kaiser-Frazer outlets.

In disclosing the expanded sales program, Kaiser said that his Fleetwings Division, which manufactures the dishwasher here at Bristol, has assumed full merchandising responsibility for the product. J. Walter Thompson has been appointed as advertising agency.

The new distribution and merchandising plan will not affect Kaiser-Frazer automobile distributors and dealers now selling the dishwasher, Kaiser said, but will serve to augment the present sales organization in the interest of maximum marketing efficiency.

Production of the water-driven dishwasher, first in the Kaiser appliance line, is now reaching capacity. The Fleetwings plant is manufacturing four models ranging in price from $127 to under $200. Normal trade discounts are allowed dealers.

Unique in its design, the jet-propelled machine is powered by water pressure, thus eliminating complicated working parts and service problems. The washing of dishes for four is a simple and silent five-minute operation.

Constructed of Kaiser aluminum, the dishwasher is sold in both cabinet and chassis models, standard or deluxe, which can be installed in any present kitchen or sink unit or which can be moved into the home in the same fashion as a stove or refrigerator.

Executive offices of Kaiser Fleetwings, Inc., have been moved to the Kaiser Building, Oakland, Calif. General Manager is S. D. Hackley, and General Sales Manager is Paul L. Yager.

Mother of 4 Children Is Found Guilty By Jury

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 20—Deliberating about one-half hour, a jury late Monday afternoon convicted Mrs. Sophie Garron, 1146 Beaver street, Bristol, of assault and battery which was based on throwing dishes and striking her husband, Harry Garron, with a purse in the eye.

Each charged the other with being unfaithful either by being too intimate with "boarders" or going away with paramoors on bus trips to other cities.

Four children, according to Juvenile Probation Officer L. Gertrude Bright, are now being cared for by the county.

Under clever cross examination by Assistant District Attorney Willard S. Curtin, the mother of four children and wife, Mrs. Garron, admitted "that she didn't go out with men, but that they came home with her."

Mrs. Garron was sentenced by Judge Davis to pay the costs of prosecution and serve not less than 30 days in the County Prison.

Mrs. Garron has been in prison since Feb. 1, when she struck her husband who had her arrested.

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

Members of the Soroptimist Club of Bucks County enjoyed a performance by Mrs. Elizabeth Cornell Dahlgren, of Ivyland, on Monday evening, at a "husband or sweetheart party". Mrs. Dahlgren presented several sketches after the manner of the one woman theatre.

Her outstanding presentation was in pantomime, that of a "Friday Afternoon Philadelphia Symphony-goer".

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Good Idea But Wrong Man

Washington, Feb. 20

AT this time politicians and political observers generally are agreed about three things: (1) That Mr. Truman has gained considerably in public esteem since last November; (2) that, unquestionably, he will be his party's nominee in 1948; (3) that, though the odds are against him, helped by a bad Republican record and a poor Republican candidate (both of which are possible), he might become formidable enough to win.

THESE being the facts — and few will dispute them — that suggestion of Democratic Senator Fulbright, of Arkansas, made last November (and vehemently supported

BARRIERS ARE FACED TO ECONOMIC HEALTH

England is Handicapped in Many Ways; "Patient" Is None Too Well

COAL CRISIS SERIOUS

By Fred Doerflinger

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 20 — (INS) — Although British industry has made a good start in the changeover from war to peacetime production (with emphasis on the vital export trade) these efforts are seriously handicapped in many ways and the country faces severe obstacles in its fight for economic health.

The patient, after a long and expensive war, is none too well and with the tonic provided by American and Canadian loans fast running out, sustained labor now seems the only possible cure.

Britain's task as it enters the second month of 1947 is thwarted by lack of manpower in her textile mills and shipyards, transport delays, the shortage of steel which is forcing firms to reject overseas orders, and lack of coal.

The coal crisis, which came to a head at the year's end, is dominating everything at the moment and there is wide-spread anxiety about the situation. Despite increased output at the mines in the week before Christmas, many mills and factories are threatened with stoppage through the failure of fuel supplies.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Senate and House Republicans yesterday stood by their divergent views on how heavily to trim President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget. House Republicans voted solidly for a $6,000,000,000 slash while most Senate Republicans favored one not over $4,500,000.

President Truman asked Congress to repeal 24 emergency laws, to extend 12 temporarily and to allow 19 others to expire. He also suggested that unneeded appropriations be rescinded.

Conservative Democrats joined the Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee to make even more stringent a subcommittee's proposal curbing portal-pay suits. CIO President Murray, like AFL President Green, denounced all labor bills before the Senate.

A bill to outlaw the closed shop was passed in Tennessee and sent to the Governor, who is expected to sign it. In Georgia the Legislature completed enactment of the Talmadge "white primary" bill.

An attempt will be made to end this week Senator McKellar's one-man fight against confirming David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Byron Price, wartime censorship chief in this country, has been appointed Assistant Secretary General of the United Nations for administrative and financial affairs.

Albania denied before the Security Council British charges that she had planted mines in Corfu Channel, and repeated her own denunciation of Britain's attitude. Representatives of the Big Four decided that the Governor of the Free Territory of Trieste should not be one of their nationals.

Creation of an international production priorities board to assure a proper balance in Europe's slowly mounting recovery is being studied by the Emergency Economic Committee for Europe. A somewhat similar proposal for colonial areas in southwest Asia failed to meet support in Washington.

Pope Pius urged Roman Catholic children to contribute their pennies and dimes for relief of destitute young people in Europe and Asia.

Britain's industrial Midlands will be permitted to resume operations on a reduced scale Monday, Prime Minister Attlee announced, and that area acted quickly to start recovery from the stagnation caused by the fuel and electric crisis.

Labor Members of Parliament after heated discussion, approved the Labor Government's decision to

NEW PEARL HARBOR?

Is another Pearl Harbor in the making?

Is Uncle Sam once again throwing his weight around, asking for trouble in the international field; and, at the same time he is tempting a sneak attack, leaving the key job of vigilance in the hands of those inadequate for such responsibility?

History will answer.

But there are certain facts of international life which all earnest Americans ought to face and understand.

There is only one nation in the rest of the world which might be strong enough to attack the United States successfully. It isn't Germany and it isn't Japan; both are prostrate, disarmed, powerless. Nor is it Great Britain; she has troubles enough of her own to keep her busy, what with a Labor Government, a coal shortage, dwindling oil supplies, a general indisposition to get back to work, and the Jerusalem mess.

The only nation which could be a threat to us is Russia.

What is her attitude?

Dean Acheson, Under-Secretary of State, has described it as "aggressive and expansionist."

Russia has indignantly replied that such a comment is "rudely slanderous and inimical."

That's rough language on both sides.

With all the boasting of the "progress" of the United Nations, it doesn't seem to be getting along fast or far. One would hesitate to say that it has done anything whatsoever to improve relationships between this country and Russia. They seem to be deteriorating rather than gaining.

The tendency in this country is to put all the blame on Russia. Such a view overlooks two important points.

One concerns the matter of trustworthiness. There is a good deal of talk in the United States that the Russian government is suspicious, jealous, mistrustful of our good intentions.

But what is our own record? Do we present ourselves to the Russian people as a nation proud, determined, and fixed in the high principles we say we believe in? Or are we not guilty of trading principles for expediency, of wavering in our faith in free government which we have been trying to sell to other nations, and of "running out" on friends whom we promised to help—friends such as Poland and Finland?

Why should Russia trust us when she has that best of all possible proofs of our untrustworthiness—she has benefited

ANSWERS TO MANY QUESTIONS ON HISTORY, DUTIES AND PERSONNEL OF U. S. CONGRESS

(This is a primer on Congress, its history, functions, duties and personnel. It was compiled by Rep. Charles A. Plumley, Republican, of Vermont. Rep. Plumley revised and brought up to date the primer originally written in 1930 by Rep. Guy U. Hardy of Colorado, under the title "Many Questions That Many Ask About the Congress, Its Works and Ways, Are Here Answered." For the convenience of the reader the primer is divided into 12 articles, one of which will be published daily in The Courier.)

(This is the fifth in a series of primer articles on Congress.)

By Rep. Charles A. Plumley
(Distributed by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(INS)—With an expanding Federal service and the growth of governmental machinery, it has been found necessary to bring into being a clearing house known as the Government Information Service. Handling thousands of inquiries asking general information concerning all phases of governmental activity, the Division of Public Inquiries of the Government Information Service, in addition, edits the United States Government Manual, in which is recorded integrated authoritative information on the organization and functions of the Federal Government. It is a volume which no congressional office could well do without.

Incidentally, in this connection, I want to call to the attention of all the newly elected Members that valuable compilation entitled "Our American Government—What Is It? How Does It Function?" This is House Document No. 465 of the Seventy-ninth Congress, second session, compiled by Representative Wright Patman, of Texas. Although, in view of the Legislative Reorganization Act, this document, too, is in need of revision — and probably will be revised later this session — there is a tremendous lot of information in it which is still authentic and reliable. It is a comulative composite of all the attempts of many people to get into one document answers to the many questions asked by constituents and others concerning our Government. It well repays examination.

How are bills written? Although many bills are written by the Members themselves, the Congress has wisely provided for legislative counsel to aid the Members and the committees in drafting measures of a more complicated nature. This corps of expert legislative draftsmen take note of the general objective sought to be attained by the Member and mold his idea into parliamentary legal form.

When his bill is written up, the Member drops it in the basket on the Clerk's desk. It is then referred to the appropriate committee. Many bills lie in committee undisturbed and are never heard from again. In some cases they have served their purpose without further action. They have advertised the Member and the project. Many bills are introduced that have not the slightest chance of serious consideration or passage.

MARIONETTES FORM PLEASING PASTIME

Two Bristol Families Have Many Hours' Enjoyment From The Hobby

GIRLS GIVE SHOWS

Two Bristol families who have had hours of enjoyment in the making and operation of marionettes, see ahead countless periods of enjoyment with this particular hobby.

The little figures—some in Biblical, some in colonial and others in fiesta costumes—are from their wooden and papier-mache framework on out the handiwork of the localites, Mrs. Paul Brown, 1717 Benson Place, whose daughter, Maybeth, and friends share the hobby; and of Mrs. George Hood, 316 Radcliffe street.

Maybeth, whose parents are as enthusiastic as she is over the hobby, is assisted in presentation of shows in the Brown basement and at school, by her class-mates of grade six, Jefferson avenue building. They are Dolores Barea, Martha Berglund and May Ann Boyd.

The Browns and their young friends started in a modest way by making rag dolls. The family's and the neighbors' "scrap baskets" provided bits of material for the costumes. One of the first shows "put on" was with the rag marionettes in a Mexican variety performance. Next the group "graduated" to the papier-mache heads. First a plaster of paris cast was made from the head of a doll, and this was used as a form for the papier-mache work. Bodies are of wood. Later the group used plastic wood for the doll heads.

The girls have dressed some marionettes in colonial costumes, and on Friday of this week, in observance of Washington's birthday, the plan to stage a play at Jefferson Avenue school, titled "Washington Visits Betsy Ross."

Development of Character More Important Than Education, He States

40 ATTEND SESSION

HULMEVILLE, Feb. 20—Having as his subject "What can we do to better educate youth for intelligent living in the world of tomorrow?", Dr. Oliver Heckman, superintendent of Langhorne-Middletown public schools, last evening delivered a thought-provoking address before members of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association. He was introduced to the 40 who gathered in the local school house, by Frank Binder, principal of Hulmeville-Middletown school.

Dr. Heckman expressed gratification over the "friendly and happy relations between teachers and pupils in this school," he adding that Children learn best when happy in chool, and they learn the responsibilities of a give and take citizenship in an environment of that kind."

After posing his subject question "What can we do to better educate youth for intelligent living in the world of tomorrow?" the educator answered thus: "First we must predict what the world of tomorrow will be like. This is difficult to say, because we are in a social revolution. We have been since 1917 and will be at least until the end of the

BURGLARY CASES ARE HEARD IN COUNTY COURT

Bernard P. Barna Sentenced To Serve A Term In Jail

MUST ALSO PAY FINE

Henry Caudle Convicted of Receiving Stolen Goods in Morrisville

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 20—Bernard Paul Barna, 24-year-old parolee from the Annandale Reformatory in New Jersey, was convicted yesterday in the Bucks county criminal court on two burglary charges and was sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs and serve 3½ to 7 years in the Eastern State Penitentiary.

Barna, who lived in Trenton for about a month after getting out of the reformatory, originally came from Somerville, N. J., where his parents lived. He has a prison record dating back to 1939, including burglary charges.

The jury found Barna guilty of burglarizing the home of Watson Church at Washington Crossing, Pa., on the night of November 3, and the home of George Bliss, Lower Makefield township, on November 7. He stole revolvers, a radio, rings and some cash from the two homes, and his arrest followed investigation by Chief County Detective Anthony Russo, of Bristol, and Trooper Andrew Kutney, of Langhorne State Police.

Barna, on the witness stand, denied the accusations of the Commonwealth and explained the possession of certain of the stolen articles, including revolvers and a radio. He testified that he won the articles in a craps game in Trenton "from a colored man."

"The jury has convicted you and could not have done anything else under the evidence," Judge Keller remarked. "Your record is not very imposing."

Henry Caudle, 21, who lived at hotels in Trenton for a time, was convicted yesterday in the Bucks county criminal court of a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods at the Vogue Cleaners, 34 Bridge street, Morrisville, on August 10, 1946. He was sentenced to 4 to 23 months in the Bucks County Prison by Judge Fred Davis, of Monroe county.

Caudle's parents live in Los Angeles, Cal., and he (Caudle) served in the Army for nearly four years but was AWOL for a year. He was arrested by FBI agents when he was discharged from the Army in Kentucky some time ago.

Ralph Heineman, who was arrested in connection with the same case, was in court some time ago and sentenced. He was a witness for the Commonwealth yesterday and pointed the finger of guilt at his companion Caudle, whom he said got inside the Vogue place and stole

Railroad Film Shown Before The Rotarians

ANDALUSIA, Feb. 20 — The program presented at the dinner meeting of Bensalem Rotary Club in King Hall on Tuesday evening included a railroad motion picture, presented through courtesy of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The film showed advancement in this form of transportation from the first small branch line, Harrisburg to Lewistown, up to the present modern trends.

The picture brought out the enormous organization required to run a great system efficiently and safely, moving about 5,000 freight trains daily, and carrying millions of people in the air-conditioned luxury liners.

On Thursday, February 27th, Bensalem club members will travel to Morrisville for a joint meeting with Bristol and Morrisville clubs.

William Funk, of Pen Ryn Episcopal School, was a guest at Tuesday evening's meeting.

SPRING STYLES

There has been less news of spring styles for the ladies than is usual at this time of year, leaving the situation somewhat confused, as the war communiques were wont to describe it during the recent hostilities. Whether there has been a deterioration in the efficiency of press agents or whether the industry, convinced that it can dispose of everything it can produce, simply has neglected to inform the public of the new trends cannot be ascertained.

There have been a few routine releases to the effect that skirts will be somewhat longer but these fail to carry conviction. They were to be longer last fall and not much happened. Perhaps this is a trend the ladies are determined to resist. Certainly long dresses will not come in if the customers prefer them short. It isn't much of a trick to shorten a skirt.

Styles in hats, no doubt, can again be described as slanted toward fantastic. This is always a safe bet. There has been some pictorial press agentry as to the new styles in bathing suits, but these, it seems, will continue to be about 90 per cent girl, in which no startling changes are apparent.

At any rate, the new styles are beginning to appear, and whatever they turn out to be is what the ladies will wear this spring. They will no doubt be refreshingly if not radically different and the prices, by pre-war standards, will contain innovations.

SEEDS INTO PLANTS

To the gardening neophyte who learns that now is a good time to plant seeds indoors for transplanting later, and decides to have a try at it, the process as described by some experts is a great deal of trouble. And it is when it is based on the hypothesis that every precaution must be taken to avoid failure.

If this is the guiding principle, then it follows that no chances can be taken with damping off—that deadly enemy of tender seedlings. Consequently the beginner will buy one of the special media sold by the seedsmen, or he will use sand, or he will sterilize his soil.

There are experienced gardeners who do not go to these lengths. But most of them do make up what is called a potting mixture—one part garden loam, one part leaf mold and one part sharp sand, all run through wire sieves and thoroughly stirred. They will put this soil in bulb pans or flats, tamp it down until it is firm but not too hard, and water from the bottom after the seeds are scattered on the surface and lightly pressed in. Finally, they will dust a thin layer of sand on top so the germinating seeds will not have to break through a crust.

All this, of course, is fun—for those who like it. Those like it who enjoy seeing things grow. But there is considerable work to the job and it requires a certain amount of fussing. The reward is that the seeds will almost certainly do well. The amateur will take pride in his achievement.

NEW PEARL HARBOR?

from it on the occasions when we were more interested in appeasement than in standing up for our promises and our principles.

The other point overlooked is in the field of overt and unfriendly acts. Russia can recall at least four major steps taken by Uncle Sam which, from her point of view, prove not only that we mistrust Russia, but that the possibility of fighting her at some not remote time is in the back of Uncle Sam's head. These are:

First, our clinging to the secret of the atomic bomb.

Second, President Truman's insistence on a huge standing army, which means, to the Russians, that he has no real hope the United Nations will preserve peace, and that he is getting ready to fight someone—someone, who, of course, has to be Russia.

Third, the Alaskan War Games, which smell very much like a dress rehearsal for attacking Russia over the North Pole—or at least preparing to defend against a Russian attack there.

Fourth, the new State Department radiocasts to the Russian people, which are nothing more than an American attempt to break down the news censorship of the Russian Government which that government insists is necessary for its own preservation.

Let's not kid ourselves. It was by steps such as these, during 1940 and 1941, that Uncle Sam provoked Japan to the point of staging the air raid on Pearl Harbor.

That raid paralyzed our military forces and prolonged the war—nearly beat us, in fact—not because it was launched but because our Washington leaders were asleep at the switch when it fell. A little vigilance would have prevented the disaster.

Who are those on guard to see that nothing of the sort is to happen in the future?

Who are the watchmen of the night to protect us on the one frontier where something of the sort might be attempted again?

They are, of course, first, the new Secretary of State, General Marshall; and second, the Ambassador to Russia, General Walter Bedell Smith.

And there is where the unhappiest of coincidences appears, when the possibility of a new Pearl Harbor is considered.

Both these men were in the Pearl Harbor tragedy, up to their necks.

Two separate reports censured General Marshall for failing to keep the Pearl Harbor command posted of the danger of war, and failing to pass along word of the coming Jap raid when he got it, in time to alert the outpost against it.

As for General Smith, the non-partisan Army Board report makes him one of the mystery men of the story. He had the warning "tip off" on the raid for many hours, according to the evidence, and what he did with it, if anything, no one has ever been able to learn. Most unhappily, he didn't use it to get a warning through to Pearl Harbor.

Is history going to repeat?

by some of our leading "liberals" and labor leaders), that Mr. Truman resign, seems very much more silly than it did before. It shows again the folly of a public man rushing too quickly to the front with a sensational, but not well-baked, proposal. Senator Fulbright did garner considerable country-wide publicity by doing exactly that, but no one will contend that his reputation for good judgment has been enhanced.

THERE never was any sense in the Fulbright suggestion. The surprising thing was that so generally competent and good a man should not only have considered the election results as permanently discrediting Mr. Truman but as turning Mr. Truman into a craven. He wholly missed the fact that the defeat gave Mr. Truman opportunities to be himself which he did not have when he felt compelled to proclaim his blind devotion to the Roosevelt policies which already had begun to disintegrate and clearly had lost public support.

THE trouble with Senator Fulbright was that he called on the wrong man to resign. There was no sound reason for demanding Mr. Truman's resignation, but there were some very sound ones for urging the resignation of Mr. Robert Hannegan as chairman of the Democratic National Committee. These were in no way diminished by the totally unnecessary speech of Mr. Hannegan a short time ago, at a testimonial banquet given for himself by postal employes, in which he announced that Mr. Truman would be his party's candidate in 1948.

EVERYBODY knew that. There is no serious party opposition to Mr. Truman and it is not likely there will be a serious convention candidate against him. Nevertheless, it is felt by many that, from the President's standpoint, it was not very smart to have Mr. Hannegan publicly proclaiming himself as his sponsor and champion at this time. For the plain fact is that Mr. Hannegan's conduct of the last campaign left him with extremely little reputation for brightness as a politician. By a large number of Democrats it was regarded as the most stupid political performance seen in a great many years.

PERHAPS, nothing that Mr. Hannegan could have done would have prevented the Republican victory, but it is certainly true that when the country and his own party were clearly turning right, Mr. Hannegan rushed violently to the extreme left. In New York he openly allied himself with the Communist saturated and controlled American Labor party, with the so-called Liberal party and the CIO professionals. All the way through the campaign he played the late Mr. Roosevelt up and Mr. Truman down. His strategy was to rely on the Roosevelt name and the radical elements. Mr. Truman was kept out of the campaign and the entire Democratic appeal was to the far left.

THE net result was a Republican victory so large as to surprise even the Republicans. Another result was to deepen the conviction of a substantial number of influential Democrats that as a party chairman Mr. Hannegan is bungling and muddleheaded. Many of these — particularly in the South — are friendly to Mr. Truman but are considerably dashed at the prospect of going through another campaign with Mr. Hannegan making the party strategy. Though Mr. Hannegan is from Missouri, Mr. Truman did not originally pick him for the chairmanship. Mr. Roosevelt did that. But he has been a personal, as well as political, friend of Mr. Truman and it is like Mr. Truman to ask him to remain both as Postmaster General and chairman. However, it is unfortunate.

IT easily would be possible to get a better chairman but if Mr. Hannegan has learned his lesson, it may not be so bad. If he has not learned it, then the Democratic position is hopeless, indeed, and 1948 will repeat 1946. Certainly, after his experience, two things ought to now be clear to him—first, that the Democratic party will lose vastly more votes than it can gain by shaping its course to please the left-wing leaders and being subservient to the CIO bosses; second, that the radical or "liberal" groups whom Mr. Hannegan so ardently courted last fall have no alternative to support of the Democratic party save the launching of a third party, which would be both futile and foolish. They cannot go Republican.

financing of the new sewer extension will be acted on.

The tax rate for 1947 remains the same at 12 mills, with 10½ mills to be used for general purposes; one mill for debt purposes and a half-mill for fire purposes.

Following a report from the borough's civil service commission showing the ratings of a number of applicants who recently took the police examination, five applicants were certified as eligible.

Upon recommendation of the police committee and Chief of Police Felix R. Gowan, two overseas veterans of World War 2 were hired as members of the police force. They are George E. Harton and Kenneth R. Tutt. Both new officers have been hired for a probationary period of six months. The war veterans taking the examination received five extra points apiece from the civil service commission. The selection of Harton and Tutt was made upon motion by Councilman Joseph F. Worstall, seconded by Councilman James Rufe.

Representing the Stringer Construction Company, Thomas Stringer, of Furlong, was before council with plans for a new housing development that he is about to start on Spruce street.

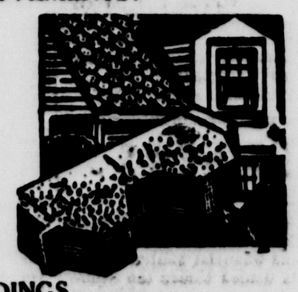

Mr. Stringer told Council members that he is ready to start at once and that he plans to erect a total of 42 new homes on the development that will sell from $8,000 to $9,500. Council outlined the necessary details that Mr. Stringer must abide by in order to secure water and sewer connections. The actual construction work on the new tract will get under way within a week.

Charles Eldon Clemens was elected a member of borough council to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Councilman Chester Irwin.

With the girls' mothers assisting, they paint the faces of the dolls, make the wigs and costumes, and attach the strings with which the dolls are manipulated. For their stage in the Brown basement two card tables have been set up, one on top of the other. Curtains are sheets which have been dyed green, with Mr. and Mrs. Brown placing chalk faces on the same.

Mrs. Hood's marionettes include the holy family, Mary, Joseph, the Babe in the manger, and two of the wise men. The faces have been modelled by Mrs. Hood from papier-mache, arms are of plaster of paris over wire frames, these being jointed at the elbow to the wooden upper arms. Bodies, legs and feet are of wood. For hair Mrs. Hood used theatrical beard, and faces were painted with show card colors. Royalty colors form the costumes, with velvet and braid used extensively. The Madonna wears the traditional red robe and cloak of blue. The wise men are bearing their gifts to the Holy Child.

Mrs. Hood fashioned the group originally for a creche, and has at various times, especially at the Yuletide season, had the group set up in her home or in a church. She has likewise taken natural color motion pictures of the marionettes which she can show her friends.

Burglary Cases Are Heard In The County Court

$231 from a tin box under the front counter.

The jury acquitted Caudle of burglary but found him guilty of the other two offenses, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Caudle flatly denied the charges. He said that he did not have to steal because he received as much as $35 a day from his mother in California. He was arrested by Chief of Police Harry Christ, of Morrisville.

Marriott Nadler, who operates the Vogue cleaning place, testified that he met the defendant Caudle as Bill Allen, and that he came to the place with Heineman on one occasion. Heineman owned a bill of $100, it was testified, and Allen (Caudle) was with him. Heineman stated that he gave Nadler $20 and that he put it in a cash box under the counter. Two days later his place was robbed.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

(By International News Service)

Legislation proposing strict regulation on automobile financing in Pennsylvania was approved by the joint state government commission.

Speaker of the House Franklin Lichtenwalter said finance plans would be regulated by licensing parties handling installments and imposing stiff penalties on violators.

The Department of Public Instruction announced a shortage of nurses still existed in some hospitals despite registration of more than 48,000 nurses this year.

The State Fish Commission assured anglers there would be plenty of finny prey in Pennsylvania streams this year—with 169 million fish stocked in 1946.

And the State Highway Department was preparing to pay $1,689,572 on March 1 to cities, boroughs and townships as the first 1947 quarterly payment from the motor fund.

SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

SWEATER GIRLS are hailing, with delight, the new "Glengarrys" to be had in the Girls' Dept. of Snellenburgs. Gay and exciting are the jacquard patterns. There's a choice of scattered patterns of "drum majorettes" or "campus cupids." Imagine! The sweaters are slip-ons with short sleeves, high cardigan necks. Ground colors are champagne, maize, pink, baby blue, pearl gray. The figures are in harmonizing contrasting colors. $5.95. Sizes 10 to 16. These make glamorous birthday gifts! (2nd fl.)

SUIT BLOUSES of sheer cotton batiste have just arrived in the first floor Snellenburg Blouse Dept. A group priced at $5.95 and $7.95 is refreshing. The blouses are the frilly lace-trimmed and embroidery - trimmed types—very frosty. All have short sleeves. Sizes 32 to 38. (1st fl.)

COMFORT & STYLE for the teen-agers and younger mothers are to be found in the latest "Gold Cross" shoes for youth. These are made over the famous foot-contoured "Cobbie" lasts. My two favorites are a "Cocaroo No. 2" at $8.95, and a "Seventeen Halter" at $7.95. Both have medium low heels, slightly extended soles. The stunning "Cocaroo" is along loafer lines and comes in rich brown elk. The dressier "Halter" has a Juliet vamp, buckled sling back, and can be had in black suede or brown calf. One of the secrets of "Gold Cross" shoes is the smooth inner tailoring! I know of no better values than these young "Gold Cross" models, sold exclusively by the Snellenburg Shoe Department in Philadelphia. (1st fl.)

"TAILLEUR TOWNS," those so-correct hats for suits, are particularly fascinating in their spring showing at the Snellenburg "Tailleur Town" Hat Bar, in the Second-Floor Millinery Dept. For such smartness and quality, these fine felts and tish-u-tex models are amazingly low priced — $5 to $11.75. You'll love the new ripple-backed Tailleur Town cloche, to be seen in the February "Vogue," and priced at a mere $5.75. There are other cloches, clever roll brims, etc., models large and small. There is a perfect garden of pastel colors, as well as navy, brown, black. You'll want more than one, for now and later. (2nd fl.)

ANY AGE person, from grade school youngsters to grandparents, will delight in the smooth efficiency of a "Majestic" fountain pen. My own has worked beautifully for years! It has always puzzled me that these fine, 14 kt. gold medium-point pens should cost so little that the manufacturers seem to be philanthropists! Regularly priced at a mere $1.69, the Snellenburg Stationery Dept. is, for a time, making an offer of these pens at still less — $1.25. The pretty green, brown, or burgundy cases are made of a durable DuPont material. Yes, and there's even a five year guarantee! (1st fl.)

WHITE SHIRTS, nice ones, at a very nice price! So shop, you wives, or send your men to the Snellenburg Men's Furnishing Dept., so conveniently located right inside of the 12th & Market St. door. Do get your share. (1st fl.)

PRE-WAR DELICACY —the real all-cocoanut Easter eggs! And Snellenburg has succeeded in getting them, by the dozens and dozens, for us. So that you and the children will be sure to have yours, I make a suggestion—place your orders ahead, for Snellenburgs to deliver at the proper time. And, if you're like myself, you'll buy one or two now, as well, for present enjoyment. These eggs of real, shredded cocoanut, with just enough syrup to hold the cocoanut together, are coated with rich, smooth chocolate. There are half pound and pound sizes, priced at 50c and $1 respectively. There should be at least one in every youngster's Easter basket, and one for each adult in the household! (1st fl.)

SLIP-COVERS, ready-made of durable 8 oz. washable twill, in an attractive "Harmony Festival" floral pattern, on a rose, blue, green or natural ground, can now be had in the Snellenburg Upholstery Dept. Studio couch sets cost $13.95, sofa sets $17.95, livingroom chair covers $8.95 each, sofa-bed covers $15.95, six diningroom seat covers $5.95, six similar seat covers with backs cost $12.95. Hulmeville P. T. A. Hears Dr. O. Heckman century. Social revolutions in the past have run for about 100 years. They do not always mean bloodshed. But there are no stays—goals and objectives change."

Dr. Heckman referred to the Renaissance as an "intellectual revolution," this continuing for 100 years. "Then the people started to think for themselves. That was the start of the democratization of the mind, the beginning of an independent citizenry when a kind of capitalism resulted and marked the beginning of the end of a system of the feudal lord." The speaker mentioned other "social revolutions," the religious revolution stretching over a period from 1540 to 1648. "This was another intellectual revolution—this time for liberating the mind on matters of religion. Many did not realize what they were fighting for. The period was marked by bitterness . . . 200 years later, in 1775, there broke out in this country the American revolution. Next came the French revolution, then revolutions in Belgium, the Scandinavian countries, the Balkans and Spain. They all were backed by the desire to bring democracy along political lines to the western world."

Turning attention to the beginning of World War I, Dr. Heckman gave as his opinion that "This marked for Europe the beginning of a social, ecotiomic, political revolution." . . . "In this country at present I'm sure we are not very certain where we are going or what we want. And the American home is about as uncertain as at any time in history." The high divorce rate, the rise in crime, particularly among young people, the insecurity of the economic structure, and other things were touched upon. "These things are happening, and happening with such rapidity we do not grasp their meaning and importance because we are so near to them. Our government is trying to keep things on an even keel." At this point Dr. Heckman mentioned briefly the subsidies to farmers and other groups, the manner in which health problems are being dealt with, activity on the part of some to bring about socialized medicine, the surpluses of some foods and the shortages of other products, and in general how the government is extending its power through electric projects, plans for establishments of junior colleges, etc. "Wherever money of the government goes, there goes the power. Power and money go hand in hand. If federal money goes for education, then the federal government will extend its power over education in this country." Dr. Heckman gave consideration to effect of such on education in the public school system.

How modern means of transportation has brought peoples of the world nearer to each other, at the most 24 to 48 hours away, was considered, the speaker adding "I believe we will see a growing tendency toward an international world society." One thing mentioned was that "When peoples of other countries, now closer to us than ever, hear of our surpluses, hard feelings are bound to result. We are no longer a people who can live unto ourselves. Contacts of our people today extend to countries afar. We are not limited as were previous generations to nearby towns and counties . . . We don't realize how much of a revolution is occurring before our eyes. We're living in a world community, and people in other parts of the world will seek a standard of living equal to our own."

At this juncture Dr. Heckman reminded that schools likewise have seen a change, they being far removed from what they were 35 years ago, with changes also noted in churches and homes. "Therefore, what kind of education is most important for our children in Pennsylvania and here in Hulmeville?" The varying abilities of the pupils was touched upon, some excelling in academic subjects, others being adept at work they can do with their hands. "We need to teach our young people that every individual in society is worth something. Some girls and boys who will never master academic subjects do extremely well in music, in shop and in home economics. We have requests from our pupils for additional subjects along these lines. Such would help many to make better contributions to society . . . Why not discipline the minds in something they are going to use. I think education for tomorrow is going to be more practical. We have been working too long under the old Boston grammar school lines. I feel a child becomes correspondingly more self-disciplined as he goes through the grades and high school, and as he grows older he should need less discipline. Aren't we failing if the pupils reach the point where they can not solve their own problems? We need to teach the young people to be congenial and trustworthy. These are the things that count.

"I don't believe the young people are being aided sufficiently in development of deep convictions. I believe it is time we teach them that excitements don't count for much in the long run of life. I wish that our public schools would teach the young people to have some ideals that they will stick to irrespective of what happens—and that they will be based on the finest virtues we know. The teachers should, by precept and example, set up a rule of conduct for the youth that the youth will respect. The most important work I have in mind in administering the schools in this district is developing character—and after that helping the young people acquire useful and helpful information."

Ned Moyer, Sr., presided during the short business session, with minutes and treasurer's report given by Mrs. Nicholas Grudza and N. P. Larson, respectively. Members of the faculty were introduced, a number of parents of pupils who recently transferred from Edgehill school to Hulmeville being present. Some of the new records purchased for the schools by the P. T. A. were played. Refreshments of ice cream, cup cakes and coffee were served by the men of the organization.

THRILL GAME KEEPS CROWD ON EDGE OF SEATS

Profy and Hibernian Teams Battle on R. & H. Floor

PROFY, 29; HIBOES, 28

Lead Changed Several Times During Progress of Game

The Hibernians and Profy teams played one of the most thrilling games of the season last night on the Rohm and Haas floor before the largest crowd of the season. Final tabulations were: Profy's, 29; Hibernians, 28. The victory halted a two-game losing streak of the league-leaders.

During the last ten seconds of the game both "Joe" Snyder and "Jobbey" Dugan missed shots at the basket which would have given the Hibernians the victory. In fact, Dugan's shot was in but bounced out because of the speed of the ball as he shot it.

Not only that but in the last two minutes, the Hibernians had three fouls and failed to convert any of them. "Joe" Quigley, who had dropped in three straight fouls, missed two when the chips were down.

The tilt was close throughout with the lead changing several times. Only once did the Profy team have more than a four-point lead, the edge most of the time being four points either way.

"Gus" Carnvale aided Profy's in the first half when he scored twice from the field to tie the count at 12-12. Cahall put his team ahead with a foul and Roe added another but Rodgers tied it at 14-14 with a double-decker under the basket. Cahall scored two-points and Profy's went ahead but just prior to the closing of the half, "Brock" Harkins scored from side court to deadlock the score at 16-16.

When "Johnny" Slaven scored twice and Cahall once, the Mill Streeters took a six-point lead but the Hibernians came back strong and with Quigley doing most of the scoring tied the score in the final quarter. "Teddy" Sak's double-decker with a minute and 8 seconds to go really gave the Profymen the triumph although it gave them a 3-point lead at the time but Harkins reduced this to a single point with a long shot.

Quigley scored 13 points in his team's defeat while high man for the winning combination was Ralph Cahall who cut the nets for seven points.

testified he employed Wilford Middleton at various times.

"Wilford had about 15 cabins to clean on November 14 and when I checked up on him the cabins had not been finished," Mr. Ridge said.

"Because he failed to do his work I immediately discharged him. I told him his work was unsatisfactory," said Mr. Ridge.

Ridge was convicted of assault and battery by a jury which deliberated about an hour and was sentenced by Judge Davis to pay the costs and a fine of $25.

The costs of prosecution, which amounted to $60 before the court trial began, will run to considerably more.

Judge Davis praised the jury for reaching the decision it did, under the evidence, and remarked: "This may have seemed like an unimportant case to you, but no case that reaches court is unimportant."

SAMSEL'S GOAL GAVE BOILERMEN A CLOSE VICTORY

Badenhausen Wins Over Passanante By Single Point

FINAL SCORE IS 31 TO 30

Anderson Scored a Total of 14 Points for The Losers

"Benny" Samsel's field goal with less than 30 seconds remaining to be played gave Badenhausen a close 31-30 victory over the Passanante quintet last night in a Bristol Basketball League game on the Rohm and Haas floor.

Samsel's twin-pointer, one of those shots made without an arch, was made while Benny was running along the side with two Passanante players trying to block the shot.

The goal was made shortly after Bob Anderson had put the grocerymen in front, 30-29, with a shot under the net. Right before the winning goal was dropped into the net, "Walt" Wilson missed two fouls which would have given the Petrickmen a larger lead.

Anderson had a good night for the losing contingent with six field goals and a pair of fouls for 14 points. For Badenhausen, "Jimmy" Cooper had 9 points.

Barriers Are Faced To Economic Health

In Lancashire alone over a million yards production was lost due to shutdowns in textile mills in the last week in December.

Manpower available for industry in Britain is rapidly dwindling through the raising of the school-leaving age and from other causes.

It has been pointed out that only the most resolute drive for increased production can save the situation. This will necessitate the speedy re-equipment of industry, complete reorganization and the use of every known improvement in mechanization.

Many manufacturing firms are starting 1947 in difficult circumstances. Although attention is now focused on the fuel and power cuts, transport delays and the shortage of steel and other materials these are only temporary difficulties when viewed in the proper perspective. When these difficulties are overcome British industry will still have to solve the problem of high costs.

Motor car prices, for example, are now roughly double what they were before the war. Costs will have to be reduced if British cars are to be more than a luxury item at home and if they are to sell abroad in competition.

Sir Peter Bennett claims that costs are high partly because wages and salaries have been increased beyond the point where they can be absorbed by technical improvements.

He believes another important cause of high costs is the growth of excessive overhead charges in the form of salaries paid to large office staffs. He points out that there is a tendency for administration to become an end in itself.

If industry is to remain healthy, Sir Peter recommends "drastic treatment" of administrative costs.

Latest figures for the motor car industry show that 26,767 cars a month are reaching the market, half going for eport. Export of cars and chassis are now roughly double the 1959 figure.

Although there are now just about as many licensed vehicles on British roads as before the war, the demand for new cars is enormous. Second-hand prices remain fantastically high.

New cars reaching the public incorporate few, if any, radical changes of design. The future of the "People's Car" in Britain is still uncertain. Manufacturers are still cautiously weighing up the chances of producing a "cheap" runabout.

As far as coal is concerned the needs of industry and domestic consumers in 1947 will continue to exceed output. When the new factories that are planned start going up in the spring the demand will be even greater.

The last year has been one of constant alarms and Ministerial visits to the mines demanding mare output and less absenteeism by the miners.

Steel was one of the acute shortages of 1946 and there is every probability that the situation will not be eased in 1947. Although production steadily expanded by nearly 1 million tons a quarter, demand far exceeded supply.

Steel manufacturers have had to put up with shortages of coal in certain districts and another restrictive factor was lack of rail transportation to move finished steel from the mills.

In the first quarter of 1946 Britain exported a great deal of steel, but, concerned at the extent of unsatisfied demand at home, the Government greatly reduced the industry's eport quota for the remainder of the year. Further limitation is likely to be operative in 1947.

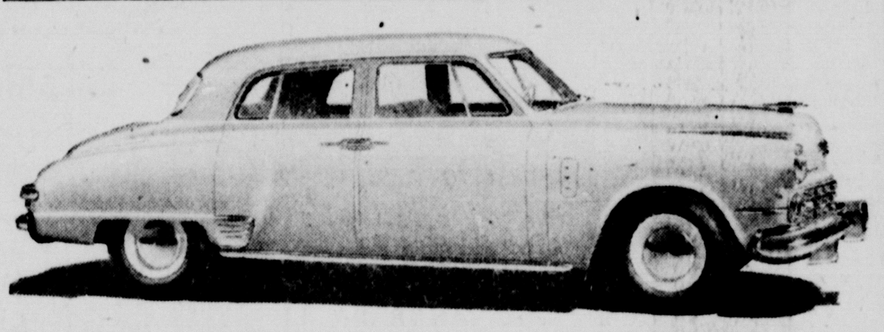

Britain needs heavy tonnages at home for the epansion of her industries. Much will depend on how plant operators speed up production and on equipment from the United States.

Heavy orders and a serious shortage of materials, chiefly steel and cast iron, is the position in which the engineering industry finds itself in 1947.

There is a shortage of skilled craftsmen in the industry.

Much will have to be accomplished by British industry in 1947, despite all these handicaps before the country can claim to be on a sound footing.

1947's Newest Automobile

This is a view of the new Land Cruiser which has just been added to Studebaker's line of postwar automobiles. Although following the company's ultra-modern styling, the model is longer, roomier and more richly appointed than any previously announced by Studebaker. Harmonious interior color combinations, deep cushioning and high quality fabrics are among features which promise to make the car a standout in the luxury automobile field. The Land Cruiser will be available only as a four-door sedan.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Where Cissy Spent Her Honeymoon

Most of the young newlyweds in our town spend their honeymoon at Roundstone Lake or Jackson Falls; why the Martins even went as far as New York City.

But when Cissy Cupper married the young Carter boy, they allowed as how they were going to spend their honeymoon right here.

"There's no place better than our town," Cissy says. "And I'd like to start married life at home, with things Bud and I are used to."

Makes sense, come to think of it. Folks naturally left them alone; and except for occasional visits to the Garden Tavern for a glass of beer, they stayed at home, getting used to married bliss.

My missus prefers traveling—and that's her right. But from where I sit, there's no place better for a honeymoon—or second honeymoon—than right at home—with your own possessions, good home cooking, and a friendly glass of beer or two—with the best companion in the world.

SECURITY BOARD SUBMITS REPORT

Recommends Payment of Benefits During Periods of Permanent Total Disability

REPORT, YEAR '45-'46

"The payment of benefits to insured workers during periods of permanent total disability through the expansion of the present Federal Government program of old-age and survivors insurance is one of the recommendations of the Social Security board in its eleventh and last annual report," Harry W. Pease, manager of the Kensington field office of the Social Security Administration, said today.

"In July of 1946, the Board was abolished, its functions transferred to the Federal Security agency, and its organization designated as the Social Security Administration. The current report, required of the board under the Social Security act, is for the fiscal year 1945-46.

"In making its recommendation for the inclusion of disability insurance, the board said that the wage loss suffered by permanently disabled workers and their families probably runs from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 a year.

"Another recommnedation of the board calls for the extension of coverage under old-age and survivors insurance to all gainfully employed workers. Persons not at present able to earn protection under the program include those employed in agriculture, domestic service, non-profit organizations and government service, and those who are self-employed."

Mr. Pease pointed out that this recommendation was based upon ten years of administrative experience, which had demonstrated the feasibility of extension of coverage to the groups now without the protection of the program.

"In addition to protecting the groups now not covered, the extension of the program would reduce the number of persons who lose their rights to benefits by shifting in and out of covered employment," he added.

"A third major recommendation calls for changes in the method by which old-age and survivors insurance benefits are figured to increase the amount of the benefits, particularly for low-paid workers. The general level of benefits should be raised, the report states, largely because of increased living costs.

"Other recommendations of the board call for increasing from $3,000 to $3,600 a year the wages that may be credited to the account of any worker, thus expanding the basis for determination of benefits, and an increase in the amount of earnings a beneficiary may receive in covered employment without having benefits suspended.

"The board also recommended reduction of the qualifying age for all women beneficiaries from 65 to 60 years."

CITES PENN'S EARLY LEADERSHIP IN ART

State Has National Dominance In Over 50 Types of Production

WEST IS OUTSTANDING

Pennsylvania's national dominance in more than fifty types of production and the key position it has occupied in the development of American industry has been accompanied by an equally high contribution to the fine arts.

Most of the great early painters, sculptors, and architects of the United States were Pennsylvanians. The most famous of all, in Colonial and Revolutionary days, was the romantic, historical painter, Benjamin West. Born near Philadelphia, he became the greatest historical painter of his time, refused a British Knighthood and succeeded Joshua Reynolds as president of the Royal Academy of Great Britain.

Charles Willson Peale and his three talented sons carried on the tradition of Benjamin West, and under their leadership Philadelphia became the center of American Art in the early days of the Republic. During this same period, a few gifted laymen of educated taste designed the public buildings of Philadelphia which were to set a new standard in American architecture.

Christ Church in Philadelphia, planned by a physician, Dr. John Kearsley, is one of the most distinguished of colonial times. Its tower has been widely copied in public buildings in this country and Canada.

Independence Hall, designed by Andrew Hamilton, has become the most familiar of all early American buildings, and remains a tribute to the high standard of taste of Pennsylvania citizens of more than two hundred years ago.

Many fine examples of early domestic architecture are to be found at various points across the whole width of the state, including the Harris Mansion erected in 1766, the home of William Maclay built in 1791, both in the city of Harrisburg, the home of John Bartram, the great pioneer naturalist, built with his own hands, the Powel house built in 1765 and the fine colonial mansion of William Hamilton in Woodlands Cemetery, all three in Philadelphia, and the pleasant old country residence of Albert Gallatin at Friendship Hill in Fayette County. Of particular interest are also the many characteristic buildings erected by the Pennsylvania Germans, including the Cloisters at Ephrata, the Moravian buildings at Bethlehem, the Augustus Lutheran Church at Trappe, and the settlement of the Harmony Society at Ambridge.

Inside Your Congress

Ceiling On Tribute

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

A lot of workingmen are looking for an Abraham Lincoln. Congress, the labor boards, and the courts have delivered them over to absentee landlords. That the workers resent this is shown by the November election in our industrial centers. The adoption of the Barnes bill in heavily industrialized Massachusetts, requiring audits and full publicity for union funds, shows that workingmen have had enough. These union funds should no more be handled in irresponsible secrecy than deposits in a bank or funds of insurance companies. Millions of dollars have been taken from union treasuries, without the members' consent, and spent to organize unions in unrelated trades. A railroad official has threatened to spend millions of union funds to defeat President Truman next year. Whose money is this, anyway?

Thousands of workers have been ordered to strike without consulting them. No one denies that this is sometimes done to line the pockets of a boss who calls a strike in order to be secretly bribed to call it off. Union funds have been embezzled more often, probably, than anyone knows.

For example, James Bove, A. F. of L. official, and lieutenant of Joseph Fay, was sent to prison for conspiring to extort $703,000 from the contractors on a big water works project. He was again convicted for embezzling $64,000 from his own union. He is now indicted, for the third time, on the charge of defrauding the government on $194,000 of income which he said nothing about. That ain't hay.

The closed shop plays into the hands of racketeers and communists. It forces men to join a union against their will, and it terrorizes them to keep their traps shut, or lose their jobs.

All unions, not affiliated with either the C.I.O. or the A.F. of L. get the cold shoulder from government agencies.

A poll taken among coal miners shows that 65 per cent of the miners want the right to vote, by secret ballot, on whether to strike or stay at work. Why not? Is this a democracy or what?

In some unions, dues and assessments are so high that many are unable to join. Entrance fees run as high as $1,500. This strengthens the labor monopoly by limiting its membership. Those who do pay have to force wages up to recover their investment in the right to work. This makes the high cost of living go higher. It helps to put homes for veterans beyond their reach.

The government owes workingmen some sort of a "bill of rights." It must either make unions democratic so the men, themselves, can run them, or it must go into the business of regulating unions to protect their members from extortion. If it does the latter, it would seem that the government should put a ceiling on dues and assessments. It should say that any union which charges more than so much for the right to work shall lose its bargaining powers under federal laws. Many independent unions, honestly run, have found they need no more than 25c or 50c a month. So long as the government supports labor monopolists with special privileges such as the closed shop, it must protect workers against extortion of excessive dues.

These seem to be the alternative courses of action for any government that commands 300,000 young men to die to force democracy on foreigners.

I don't advocate the government regulating unions as it does freight rate or bills for gas or electricity. Instead, government should free workers from the autocracy of their bosses and then let the men run their own unions on democratic lines like the New England town meeting.

The government should issue an Emancipation Proclamation to white men, as well as black, or else admit that we have lost the war for democracy at home.
